INTRODUCTION

Introduction & Purpose

The France Historical AFV Register is intended to provide a cataloging of all of the historical Armored Fighting Vehicles (AFV), including tanks, APCs and self-propelled artillery, etc that are on preserved or otherwise displayed in museums or as monuments in France. As such the registry ranges from the World War I-era Renault FT to the Leclerc. However, the registry is not intended to include any modern AFVs that are still in service.

Format

The France Historical AFV Register is organized by state and city or town as follows.

REGION

DEPARTEMENT

CITY OR TOWN

AFV Model	Man./User	status	Notes and/or location
-----------	-----------	--------	-----------------------

The numbers in parentheses are department numbers or city postal codes respectively.

Manufacturer/User denotes the original manufacturer (country) and various users, using three letter country codes (based on the ISO 3166-1 alpha-3 three-part standard)

Status is denoted by one of the following codes.

std = stored (this can be either indoor our outdoor storage, but clearly not on display) wre = wreck (typically vehicles on or recovered from a target range, or simply in very bad condition)

dep = departed

Additional information about a particular vehicle is often included in footnotes.

Often, if there are a large number of AFVs on display in a particular town or military post, sublistings are also provided, organized by location - museum, building, road, etc.

Sources

The France Historical AFV Register is compiled from a number of sources. Firstly, the register is an expansion of a portion of Leslie Delsing's "Europe AFVs" register file. Some of the other notable online sources include Trevor Larkum's Preserved Tanks in France (Northampton, England: Armour Archive, 1994), the former Jose Manuel Estevez's Shermans en France website (now offline), the former Tanks for the Memories geocaching site, The Sherman Register and other forums and message groups such as the AFV News Discussion Board, and G104 (the Sherman Register mailing list). Where possible, the origin of information on a particular vehicle is denoted in footnotes. A large number of contributors, many of which are credited throughout the registry, have provided invaluable information.

If you have any comments or corrections, please send them to Pierre-Olivier Buan at soldat_ryan@hotmail.com, or simply post to the AFV News Discussion Board.

⁸ Sequence number 1-620, tank built by Pressed Steel Car.

⁹ The B1 and B1 bis were previously on display at the Fort de Seclin, near Lille. They both come from the Bourges fire range. They will be both totally restored.

¹⁰ This wreck was identified as being the B1 bis N° 243 "INTREPIDE", which was part of the 8th Combat Tank Battalion in 1940 and was destroyed at Moreuil on 1st June 1940. This tank will also be fully restored.

¹¹ Version of the tracked vehicle built during the war (1940-1944) in the unoccupied zone of Vichy, for forestry purposes by the National Forest Office (ONF), Eaux et forêts etc...). They were not armored for the civil use, but could be quickly converted into armored vehicles (the AMX factory clandestinely produced armoured bodies for these vehicles which were stockpiled). In 1944, some of these vehicles were used in Southern France with some Resistance / Free French groups. Information from Claude Gillono (March 2007) and AFV Weapons magazine n° 10 : The Chenillette Lorraine.

¹² This tank comes from the former La Réole museum. RN T-271185.

¹³ This vehicle comes from a private collection located in Netherlands.

¹⁴ This vehicle comes from a private collection located in Netherlands.

¹⁵ This tank was part of the Budge collection before it has been scattered, and was then part of the Imperial War Museum collection in Duxford.

¹⁶ This tank seems to be an original Hetzer, having a petrol engine instead of a diesel one which equipped the Swiss-made G-13. It was previously part of the "Provence 44" association.

¹⁷ This tank is one of the 16 Stuart tanks recovered from Brazil by Mike Stallwood in 2008. See this Milweb article.

¹⁸ The Serial Number indicates that this tank is an M4A2 built by Fisher in 1943. However, this tank has an M4A3 engine deck, and that can cause confusion. This tank was previously part of the "Provence 44" association and was used in some reenactment events.

¹⁹ This tank comes from the former La Réole museum.

²⁰ This Priest comes from the Dedelstorf fire range, in Germany. It is currently being restored and was previously on display at the "Musée de l'Abri" at Hatten.

²¹ This Priest comes from the Garlstedt fire range, in Germany.

²² This wreck comes from a target range in Donaueschingen, Germany.

²³ RN 96373. Named after the tank of the RBFM, 2nd French Armored Division, in which served the well known French actor Jean Gabin.

²⁴ Built by Fisher in May, 1945. USA 30127457. Served in France after WW2, comes from a fire range in Germany.

²⁵ Vehicle built by Borgward in 1942 (Surviving_SdKfz6_SdKfz11 PDF doc).

²⁶ Vehicle built by Auto-Union in 1944 (Surviving_SdKfz6_SdKfz11 PDF doc).

²⁷ Comes from the "Ardennen Poteau '44" museum. This SU-100 was built in Czechoslovakia under Russian licence between 1951 and 1956.

²⁸ This SU-100 was also built in Czechoslovakia under Russian licence between 1951 and 1956.

³⁰ Named after a tank that served with the 501st Tank Regiment, 2nd French Armored Division during World War II. See Antoine Misner, M4 Sherman français.

³² Rebuilt by the ERGMEB at Gien on 13 September 1961, according to plate on the front glacis.

³³ Some tanks identified by "RGW" (Forum Réserve Opérationnelle, March 2007).

³⁴ France received some Centaur tanks in april-May 1945, which equipped the 13th Dragoon Regiment after the war.

³⁶ The SN could be 49008, however the tank is confirmed as having been built by the Fisher Tank Arsenal.

This tank is located 10 meters far from where it was knocked out on 23 November 1944, according to Adam and Misner, "Sherman M4A4 Austerlitz" in Estevez, Shermans en France, and Misner, M4 Sherman français. The SN was identified by Joe DeMarco, and the original RN is 3018423.

⁴³ Serial Number 16604, RN 3016910, built in November 1942 by Chrysler. The tank comes from Bourges fire range. It was originally attributed to the British army and modified as an M4A4 Duplex Drive (some DD mods weldings are still visible on the hull). Before the tank restoration in 2012, the British nickname "Massachussetts" and the original painted RN were still visible on the hull. There are great chances that this tank is one of two Duplex Drive M4A4s re-modified into M4A4(75) and given to 1st Chasseurs d'Afrique Regiment, 5th French armored division after the Rhine crossing in 1945. The differential housing is not original to the tank and was probably changed in the 1950s, when the tank was upgraded to M4A4T. The tank is named after an M4A1(76) of 5^{ème} Chasseurs d'Afrique Regiment, 1st French armored division, destroyed near Rixheim on 1st December 1944.

⁴⁵ This tank was given by the Thun/Reuenthal museum (Switzerland) and placed there as a monument in January 1998.

⁶⁷ One M4A4 Sherman, two Otter armored cars, an M29 Weasel and some other vehicles will be sold in an auction on 31 May 2013.

⁶⁹ A plate beside the monument indicates that this Sherman DD belonged to the 6th Canadian Armored Regiment (1st Hussars), was lost at sea on 6 June 1944, and was recovered 27 years later (in 1971).

⁷² This tank was restored in March/April 1994 by the 15 Field Workshop, 6th REME battalion, according to a plate fixed on the tank.

It was recovered in 1975 by 7 Field Workshope REME, according to a plate welded to the monument. A plate indicates that the monument was "constructed by the Engineers of the 3rd Division, June 1977 'who also passed this way.....' June 1944."

⁷⁶ Some information provided by "MCH CHAR" (Forum des chars de combat et de la cavalerie, June 2008).

⁷⁷ Comes from the Saumur Tank Museum. Has the original French RN 420 126 painted on one side.

⁷⁹ This tank was recovered by Albert Figg, who wanted to "put a Churchill Tank on Hill 112 as a permanent static memorial to the brave troops of 9th Royal Tank Regiment," according to A Churchill Resurrected: The Tank Memorial on Hill 112.

¹⁰⁰ Information from The Churchill Register.

¹⁰¹ "The turret was discovered in 1993 by Mr Van Meeven, a person interested in Atlantik Wall remains. It was upside-down, half-buried in the trench which allowed the access to the Tobruk, and covered with vegetation, so it was camouflaged for 49 years. Mr Van Meeven, helped by Möelan townhall employees and friends of the St-Marcel Breton Resistance Museum, took one day to save this old relic. After several hours, the turret was extract from its hole with a 10-ton crane. It was cleaned and put on its original Tobruk. On the back of the turret were found French 1940 Tank Battalions markings, 2 red Ace of Heart on a white square. On the left side, there is a big hole in the armour, which comes from an explosive shell fired in 1945 from an US ship during an exercise. Maquette Garden Forum.

¹⁰⁶ According to some sources, the tank was either sold to a Belgian scrap dealer or to a private collector. As of May 2012, it is not part of the museum anymore.

¹¹¹ This tank was the first vehicle to enter the city of Chartres on 15 August 1944. It belonged to the 31st Tank Battalion, 7th Armored Division and was pushed into a bomb hole after having been abandoned by its crew. See the Telegraph.co.uk article and article from l'Echo Républicain website about this recovery.

¹¹² Built by American Locomotive Co. in April, 1943.

¹¹³ This tank came from the Portuguese army. Information courtesy of Christian Dours. The original Canadian Grizzly sprockets and tracks were replaced by US M4A1 Sherman ones.

¹¹⁴ The tank still carries additional towing lugs and original painted markings that prove that it was used by British troops during WW2.

¹¹⁵ Built in October, 1944 by Pressed Steel Car. Comes from a fire range in Germany. Former M7B2 converted back to M7B1 during its restoration.

¹¹⁶ Information from Militaria Magazine N° 264. The tank was entirely rebuilt, only the chassis is original and comes from an M3 Lee.

¹³⁸ Some tank identified by Jean-François Brillant (Forum Réserve Opérationnelle, March 2007). Five of the tanks on display here were previously displayed at the ERGMEB Gien : AMX-13 T SS-11, Char B1 bis "Téméraire", Hotchkiss H39, M4A1 Sherman "Douaumont", Panhard EBR.

¹³⁹ Formerly at Saumur, placed here on 13 June 1998. 1 of 5 survivors (Museum's magazine n° 35).

¹⁴⁰ Five wrecks (including parts of a B1 tank) were necessary to restore this tank. It was previously nicknamed "Estienne".

¹⁴¹ This Hotchkiss H-39 tank is the one which was previously on display at Gien, in the 12ème BSMAT army base (formerly ERGMEB, Gien), along with 4 other vehicles which are now at Mourmelon. It carries a Renault R-35 turret and a fake gun.

¹⁴² Identified by David ("La journée 'portes ouvertes' aux 501e & 503e R." MilitaryCars.net Le Forum). Named after an M4A2(75) that served with 501st Tank Regiment, 2nd French Armored Division, during World War II. See also Misner, M4 Sherman français.

¹⁴³ Identified by David ("La journée 'portes ouvertes' aux 501e & 503e R," MilitaryCars.net Le Forum). Named after an M4A2(75) that served with 501st Tank Regiment, 2nd French Armored Division, during World War II. See also Misner, M4 Sherman français. The M4A4T "NORVEGE" at Mourmelon is SN 4825, only the 21st M4A4 built, perhaps one of the oldest Shermans in France. Only 800 Shermans of all types had been built when 4825 left the factory (Kurt Laughlin).

¹⁴⁴ The 501st-503rd Tank Regiment was equipped with Panther tanks from 1947 to the mid-50s. This Panther is one of the two which were captured after the Dompierre Battle in September 1944, brought back to Paris and on display for a long time in front of the Hôtel des Invalides in Paris, according to Jean-François Brillant (Forum Réserve Opérationnelle, March 2007).

¹⁴⁵ Vehicles identified by Jean-François Brillant (Forum Réserve Opérationnelle, November 2007).

¹⁴⁶ These 2 vehicles were modified to train AMX-30 crews to bail out of the tank when it was crossing a river, if the tank broke down during the crossing. Information from J-F Brillant (Forum Servir et Défendre, July 2009).

¹⁴⁷ During the tank restoration, the removal of the paint allowed to find the original markings. These markings indicated that the tank's nickname was "Moghrane", a tank which belonged to the 2nd Squadron of the 12th Chasseurs d'Afrique Regiment, 2nd French Armored Division. This tank landed at Utah Beach in August 1944, participated to the fightings in Paris and at Dompierre (September 1944), and of the Royan gap (October 1944-April 1945). The tank was retired from active duty on 18 April 1945 and stored at the GER XV, 3rd Squadron, at the Hispano-Suiza factory in Saintes (Charente-Maritime). The tank still carries an ABS plate, indicating that it underwent a mechanical revision during the 1950s.

¹⁶¹ Stamped markings on the front glacis : "Châssis 49 475". This tank is most probably an ex-French army M4A3T. The serial number indicates that it is an M4A3, but the engine deck cover plate is similar to the ones which can be found on the M4A4Ts (re-equipped with Continental R975 engines). Moreover, the rear mudguards are typical French large post-war mudguards (which can also be found on M4A4Ts), which indicates that this tank has been transformed in the 1950s to serve in the French army. Named after the famous tank from 12th Cuirassier Regiment, 2nd French Armored Division, which was knocked out during the liberation of Phalsbourg and is preserved there. ¹⁶⁸ This tank from the 101 SS.s.Abtteilung was lost in a crater on 26 August 1944. It was blown up by a scrap dealer after the war and the small metal bits were buried when the D913 road was constructed. Bruno Renault, a local historian, discovered and recovered parts of the turret, including the roof and parts of the left side. The hull of the tank still remain (in bits) under the road.

¹⁶⁹ Tank on loan from the Engineers Museum at Avrillé. A V8 Deutz engine was fitted instead of the radial Continental engine.

¹⁷¹ Former British M4A4, Serial Number 18114. Originally carried the British number T-147194. Restored with a reproduction of the T5E3 Mine Excavator blade.

¹⁸⁶ RN 3034142. The most important here is to retain the symbol of the Sherman tank. An M4A4 (mostly used by British and French forces during WW2, not used by the US army) was put in place there instead of an M4A1 or an M4A3 (used by US troops), which were very hard to find on the marketplace at that time. This tank was acquired from the Musée des Blindés at Saumur and entirely restored by the Lorraine Battle Memorial association in 1999, according to the President of the Lorraine Battle Memorial association.

¹⁸⁸ Original tank, which belonged to the 3rd Company, 501st Tank Regiment, 2nd French Armored Division and was knocked out on 17 November 1944, according to Adam, "M4A2 Mort-Homme" in Estevez, Shermans en France and Misner, M4 Sherman français. Has RN 420560.

¹⁹⁴ Painted RN 3036792. Tank restored in 1992. The Serial Number given by the owner corresponds to a Grizzly tank registration number, the real Canadian serial number (Shop Number) stamped on the hull is 104. The tank was restored with US M4A1 sprockets and rubber tracks reproductions made in the 2000s.

¹⁹⁵ Tank restored in 2003.

¹⁹⁶ Tank restored in 1998.

¹⁹⁸ Named after a 2nd Chasseurs d'Afrique Regiment, 1st French Armored Division tank, destroyed on 23 November 1944 at Mulhouse and still preserved there. See also Misner, M4 Sherman français.

²³⁵ The Museum claims to have more than 800 vehicles, but this likely includes unarmored "softskin" vehicles. This list, which intend to be as complete as possible includes near 300 armored fighting vehicles.

²³⁶ This tank comes from Bourges, where it was stored before its transfer to Saumur. It arrived at the museum in January 2009.

²³⁷ Some pictures of the interior of this tank can be seen here : AMR-33

²³⁸ Fitted with a 75 mm gun and 2 SS-11 AT missiles on each side.

²³⁹ This tank is a radio controlled vehicle with a 1977-dated KMT mine-plough attached. Has RN 294-0058.

²⁴⁰ Vehicle acquired in 1991 or 1992, comes from GIAT (Museum's magazine n° 23).

²⁴¹ "Chassis N° FAMH 29," according to stamping on the front hull. The other example, formerly at Saumur, has been transferred to the 501st-503rd Tank Regiment at Mourmelon-le-Grand.

²⁴³ A plate at the museum says : "Bov III recovered from LJUBUSKI (Bosnia) by the South-East Multi-National Division , after having obtain information from the ½ paratrooper commando group of the 1st Régiment de Chasseurs Parachutistes during a mission from August to December 1996".

²⁴⁴ Vehicle acquired in 1991 or 1992 (Museum's magazine n° 23).

²⁴⁵ Received in May 1986, and restored to running condition the same year (Museum's magazine n°18)

²⁴⁷ Fitted with a field modification to the mantlet, according to Chris Shillito, The Churchill Register.

²⁴⁸ A Crusader III AA turret is displayed at the Bovington Tank Museum but this vehicle is the only complete example.

²⁴⁹ Vehicle acquired in 1996 (Museum's magazine n° 34).

²⁵⁰ For further information on the museum's ELC Evens see Larkum, PTIF 3rd edition, N° 138-140 and 144, p. 82.

²⁵¹ In running condition since June 2009. This tank was attributed in 1940 to the Lieutenant Le Coroller, chief of the 1st Section, 3rd Company, 4th Heavy Tank Battalion. The tank fought in May 1940 at Stonne and Raucourt-et-Flaba, and then in June 1940 at Vandy and Voncq (Ardennes). It was in use in the Wehrmacht during the war, the Germans modified the radio support and the ammunition containers (information from the Saumur museum's magazine n° 54).

²⁵² The tank was recovered with a 37mm gun, which was removed and placed on another of the museum's FT. This tank got a MG instead.

²⁵³ Fitted with a German cupola and is a runner. For further information on this tank see Larkum, PTIF 3rd edition, N° 63, p. 70.

²⁵⁴ This armored car was secretly built by the French resistants inside the La Rochelle gap. Information from Misner, chans FFI.

²⁵⁵ It has a shell still in the hull. This particular vehicle was re-used in 1944-45 by Free French Forces.

²⁵⁷ Vehicle acquired in 1996 (Museum's magazine n° 34).

²⁵⁸ This vehicle has been acquired in Great-Britain, in 1997 or 1998 (Museum's magazine N° 36).

²⁵⁹ Markings on the hull : N° 811; ABS N 359-1950. According to the SN, this tank was built by Pressed Steel Car and originally had the RN 3015567. It is a very early Sherman, being unusual in having a riveted lower hull, which is more common on M3 Lee tanks

²⁶⁰ Vehicle acquired from Bovington Tank Museum during an exchange in 1987 (Museum's magazine n° 19).

²⁶¹ For further information on the museum's M8 HMCs see Larkum, PTIF 3rd edition, N° 52, p. 68.

²⁶³ Rebuilt by the ERGMEB at Gien on 6 March 1961 according to plate on the front glacis.

²⁶⁴ Rebuilt by the ERGMEB at Gien on 9 October 1961 according to plate on the front glacis.

²⁶⁵ Rebuilt by the ERGMEB at Gien on 10 February 1961 according to plate on the front glacis.

²⁶⁶ This vehicle comes from the US Army base in Grafenwöhr (Germany) and was acquired by the museum in 1993 (Museum's magazine n° 25).

²⁶⁷ Boom and winch is missing.

²⁶⁸ The tank carries a plate on the front hull : "ARE N° 366; DATE 31.1.68." Another M47 Patton in Saumur's collection is named "Dannemarie" and carries the RN 823-922 (see "stored vehicles").

²⁶⁹ Has RN 9B3106. Rebuilt number 4105M, the rebuilding was done at Mainz, Germany. This vehicle is said to come from the American army base in Ramstein, Germany, it was acquired by the museum in 2001 (Museum's magazine n° 40).

²⁷⁰ This vehicle comes from the US Army base in Grafenwöhr (Germany) and was acquired by the museum in 1993 (Museum's magazine n° 25).

²⁷¹ This tank belonged to the 132nd Italian Armored Division "Ariete".

²⁷² This vehicle has been acquired in Great-Britain, in 1997 or 1998 (Museum's magazine N° 36).

²⁷³ Vehicle received in January 2004, it comes from Israel (Museum's magazine n° 44).

²⁷⁴ Vehicle acquired in 1996 (Museum's magazine n° 34).

²⁷⁵ Vehicle restored in 1989-1990, and displayed for the first time in April 1990. On this vehicle, the chassis/hull was recovered from Djibouti, at the bottom of a cliff, and some parts come from the Coëtquidan military camp. The left side of the hull comes from an AMD 178B, which is a post-war upgrade of the AMD 178. The turret comes from the Château de Guise. It has neither internal fittings nor engine (Museum's magazine n° 23).

²⁷⁶ This EBR was used to carry the body of Général De Gaulle during his funeral.

²⁷⁷ Vehicle acquired in 1998, that comes from the Thun Panzer Museum (Switzerland), and exchanged for an AMX-30B and a Panhard EBR (Museum's magazine n° 35).

²⁷⁸ This tank was put out of service by the tanks of the 5th US Armored Division, on 10 August 1944, in Northern Sarthe (at a farm called "Les Noyers", in the near of Nouans), according to a plate in the museum.

²⁷⁹ Tank acquired in 2000, it comes from Great-Britain (Museum's magazine n° 39).

²⁸⁰ Restored to running condition in 1987 (Museum's magazine n°18)

²⁸¹ Tank acquired in 2000, it comes from Great-Britain (Museum's magazine n° 39).

²⁸² This tank was loaned to the Memorial in Caen for many years, and was returned in 2000 (Museum's magazine n° 39).

²⁸³ This Tiger was abandoned by 102 SS.s.Abt in August 1944 and was captured by the Free French Escadron Autonome de Chars Lourds Besnier and named "Colmar." It fought during the Battle of the Saint-Nazaire gap in 1945. For further information see "History of the Tiger I at Saumur" at the Late Tiger I Interior website.

²⁸⁴ Has hull number 280112. According to articles from the Saumur museum's magazines n° 36 and n° 54, this tank, which now carries the turret number 233, could be the tank n° 123, which belonged to the 1st Company, 101 SS.s.Abt in August 1944. It could have been abandoned by its crew on 23 August 1944, due to some engine problems, at Brueil-en-Vexin (near Mantes-la-Jolie). It has been apparently salvaged by the French Army in September 1944, and then stored at the AMX factory at Satory before being transferred to the museum, when it was created. It was not in running condition for some months due to a gearbox problem, but the tank has been repaired recently and now, it runs normally.

²⁸⁵ This tank was restored from a badly damaged and incomplete wreck, that comes from ETBS Bourges. A great part of the right-side running gear and tracks are missing. RN 91826.

²⁸⁶ For further information on this tank see Larkum, PTIF 3rd edition, N° 60, p. 68.

²⁸⁷ This Renault R-39 tank was upgraded after World War II with a more recent gun, and served in the French Gendarmerie.

³⁰⁶ This tank comes from Lunéville, where it served as a static display in the 3rd Cuirassiers Regiment. When the regiment was disbanded in 1998, the tank was brought back to the museum (Museum's magazine n° 37). Named after an M4A2(75) Sherman that fought with 501st Tank Regiment, 2nd French Armored Division during WWII. See Misner, M4 Sherman français.

³⁰⁷ This tank served with the 12th Chasseurs d'Afrique Regiment, 2nd French Armored Division in 1944-45. Has RN 420050. During an inspection in 1944, General Leclerc noticed that the Corse island was painted at the bottom of the painted 2nd French Armored Division insignia. He asked it to be removed, but it stayed until the end of the war, according to Misner, Sherman Corse. This Sherman was used at the ESAM of Bourges after World War II as a test bed for various modernizations. The tank was fitted with a Sturmgeschütz mantlet and a 75mm CN 75-50 gun (which equipped the AMX-13). These modifications were part of the development of the Israeli M50 Super Sherman (for more details, see Forum Collecteurs de plastique and Wikipedia: M50 Super Sherman). The 75mm CN 75-50 experimental gun and the StuG mantlet were removed and a vintage WWII 75mm gun and mantlet were replaced during the restoration of this tank.

³⁰⁸ Seized by the French Customs at Dunkerque in 2008 and brought to the museum on 11 June 2008.

³⁰⁹ Turret SN : 5. 1 of 2 existing, the other one is located in Austria. This one arrived at the museum in January 2009.

³¹⁰ RN 6894 0042. Received on 17 March 2011 (Museum's magazine n° 58).

³¹¹ The turret carries a plate which indicates " Tourelle CAFL N°7". CAFL is the manufacturer of the turret.

³¹² For further information on this tank see Larkum, PTIF 3rd edition, N° 149, p. 84.

³¹³ The tracks are missing.

³¹⁴ Previously located at the Engineers Museum at Avrillé, was given to the museum in 2001. The mine rollers are dismounted from the tank.

³¹⁵ Captured in Iraq in 1991 during the 1st Gulf War and transferred to the museum in 1993 (Museum's magazine n° 25).

³¹⁶ Marking on the turret : "BTM 0000B; Tourelle TS 90; N°S. 19; Date 5/81".

³¹⁷ Marking "MSU; ORD 3/LL/2948 6; 5-6-53" painted on the sides. No turret, British fittings on the glacis. This tank is one of the 540 M4A2s built by Federal Machine and Welder, the smallest producer of Shermans (Kurt Laughlin).

³¹⁸ The markings seem to be the original WW2 ones, this would indicate that this HMC belonged to the French Army during WW2.

³¹⁹ Vehicle acquired in Lebanon, in 1997 or 1998 (Museum's magazine n° 36).

³²¹ Tank built by Ford. Very few of these tanks were sent in Europe during WW2. According to Joe DeMarco, this is the only M4A3(75) Dry stowage known in Europe, and the only one which still has its original engine deck with conventional hinges on the engine doors, and the uncut splash guard around the back of the turret. This tank is very close to its factory condition, with none of the post-WW2 modifications that the other M4A3(75) Dry built by Ford had in the USA.

³²² This turret carries the plate : "Sigle T_A_P; N° de série Proto 10; Constr. APX; Code OTAN F3508".

³²³ Captured in Iraq in 1991 during the 1st Gulf War and transferred to the museum in 1993 (Museum's magazine n° 24).

³²⁴ Comes from the Bundeswehr, acquired in 1992 or 1993 (Museum's magazine n° 24).

³²⁵ Comes from the Bundeswehr, acquired in 1992 or 1993 (Museum's magazine n° 24).

³²⁶ Missing left-hand track. Painted in Free French Forces markings, was formerly on display at Les Invalides in Paris. Being restored to static display condition.

³²⁷ This tank was captured by the 2nd French Marines Infantry Regiment (2^{ème} RIMA), according to a marking painted on the back of the vehicle. Captured during the 1st Gulf War and transferred to the museum in 1993 (Museum's magazine n° 25).

³²⁸ Vehicle received in November 1986 (Museum's magazine n° 18).

³⁸⁰ This tank from the B.I.M. of the 1st Free French Division (1ère D.F.L.) was knocked out by an anti-tank mine on 10 April 1945 in the mountains of l'Authion and La Roya (last German gap in France). It was pushed into a ravine on 11 April, because it blocked the road. To commemorate the 60th anniversary of the liberation of the town of Le Moulinet, this tank was excavated from the ravine and put on display as a monument. For more info, see Le char de Cabanes-Vieilles. The tank is still in its original paint and carries the RN 3049111.

³⁸¹ Tank identified by "stefoune" (Sudwall superforum, September 2007). The engine and the rear deck plates are missing. This tank, which belonged to Jean Grinda, has been sold since then.

³⁹⁰ The AFV carrying this name served at the 58th Artillery Regiment, according to Mehdi Madani.

³⁹¹ This tank, which carries its original French WW2 nickname and markings, was built by the Chrysler Tank Arsenal in 1943 (serial number 19650). It was "put in position of Supply at the depot 31 of the Ordnance, and then assigned to the British army with the WD number T 150255 (79th Armoured div., then County of London Yeomanry). It was then transferred to the 1st Assault Brigade Royal Engineers, which participated to the Sicily landing and the Italy campaign, during which a shell damaged the left idler wheel and mudguard. Once repaired and cleared off its specific British equipments, it was put in storage in another US depot, which assigned it to the 5th French Armored Division. It ended the war at Stuttgart, Germany. This tank was repainted 3 times by the British troops and 3 times by the French ones. [...] After the war, it was modified into an M4A4T in 1951 at the ARL of Reuil". It was then used as a fire range target, before being salvaged and restored by the Group Military Conservation, located at La Seyne sur Mer (source : Militaria Magazine n° 108). The tank was put on display for some years in a ship-museum called "La Dives", but the museum closed in 2000 (Story of the ship La Dives).

³⁹² Named after a 5^{ème} Chasseurs d'Afrique Regiment (1st French Armored Division) tank, destroyed at La Valette on 23 August 1944. See Misner, M4 Sherman français. Info courtesy of "laverdure" (Le Forum de la Seconde Guerre Mondiale, March 2007).

This tank comes from the Saumur museum, where it was displayed outside in the 80s. At that moment, it was painted with a dragon face on the front glacis. This tank is a former M4 Dozer which is missing its blade, but still carries the Dozer fittings on the glacis and suspension. (See Larkum, PTIF 3rd edition, N° 51, p. 67).

³⁹³ The incomplete chassis was recovered on 15 December 2011. The city of Sainte-Maxime wants it to be restored and preserved. It will probably be displayed somewhere in the city. This tank was lost on 15 August 1944, during the landings on La Nartelle beach. It is believed that this tank was lost by the 191st Tank Battalion, which was part of the 45th Infantry Division during the landing. As the tank chassis recovered in 2011 was identified as being an M4A4, it could be one of the Dozer tanks given by British troops in Italy to the 191st Tank Battalion for the landing, in order to clear the beach and remove mines and obstacles. A period photo shows a Sherman tank nicknamed "Night-Hawk" that was destroyed by a land mine, and it could be the tank recovered here. However, all this has to be confirmed.

³⁹⁴ The museum has closed in August 2008, and the fate of the vehicles is unknown.
