Fox Armoured Car – Armoured Weapons Museum, Poznań (Poland)

Two Fox armoured cars have been found in the scrapyard of the Italian army base in Sigonella, Sicily, in 2018. They were intended for scrap before the end of the year. These two Fox have a special cooling system, which would indicate that they served in North Africa, and then in Sicily in July, 1943 on. Fox armoured cars served in Polish units that fought in Italy during WW2, notably the 15th Pułk Ułanów Poznańskich. This one was transferred to Poznan in May, 2020

Fox Armoured Car – Bruce Parker Collection (Canada) – running condition

This vehicle was recovered with 2 other Fox Armoured Cars from a wrecking yard in Ontario, Canada, where they sat for nearly 40 years. The paint and markings are the original ones that were found on the vehicle before sandblasting. The colour from the factory was chosen because it allows to put on the original CF number, W/T and bridge class signs. In service, these markings and the original paint was over painted brown/dark brown mickey mouse and the original markings were repainted differently (Bruce Parker)
