M3 Stuart – National Armor and Cavalry Museum, Fort Benning, GA (USA)
Serial Number 1343, RN 301877. Restored in 2015-2016

Pierre-Olivier Buan, September 2018

M3 Stuart – National Armor and Cavalry Museum, Fort Benning, GA (USA)

Serial Number 2564, RN 304172. This tank was built as a gasoline M3. It was reportedly named "Bingara" and belonged to 7 Tp B Squadron, 2/6th Australian Armoured Regt. It is on a list of 27 tanks brought to Buna Island, to Sanananda. The way the sponson MG holes are blanked off, with what appears to be 3 increasingly smaller round plates, is typical of Australian M3s (Joe DeMarco). It now has a diesel engine, but it is unknown if the conversion was done during or after WW2

M3 Stuart – National Museum of the Pacific War, Fredericksburg, TX (USA)

New Guinea combat veteran, Serial Number 2017 (USA AFVs register). This tank was transported to Milne Bay, then transported by barge to Buna. It is one of the seven M3 Stuarts of the Australian 2/6th Armoured Regiment that were supporting troops of the 2/9th Infantry Battalion at Cape Endaiadere. On December 24, 1942 this tank suffered a hit to the driver's flap from one of the Japanese 76.2mm Type 3 Naval Gun emplaced at Buna Airfield (Old Strip). It was recovered from the Buna battlefield in mid-1973, and was transported to Port Moresby by barge. Then it was shipped to the Nimitz Museum to be displayed (<http://www.pacificwrecks.com/>)

<https://www.facebook.com/photo?fbid=4062666173755522>

M3 Stuart – National Museum of Military Vehicles, Dubois, WY (USA)

Serial Number 1246. This tank is part of few Stuarts that were received by Australia as refugee cargo, originally intended for the Netherlands East Indies. When NEI fell, the ships were diverted to Australia. It then served during the battle for Buna. The hull of this vehicle was recovered and restored from a wreck by Ron Fry. After purchase John Belfield continued the restoration and fitted the correct turret which he had found buried under ground in a school car park

M3A1 Stuart – Arundel Island, New Georgia Islands (Solomon Islands)

Assigned to the US Marine Corps and manned by Marines. Landed on Arundel Island. This tank supported US Army 27th Infantry during an assault on 17 September 1943. This was one of two tanks knocked out by camouflaged Japanese 37mm anti-tank guns. The tank's crew escaped the disabled tanks, but the Advance was blunted. The following day, the attack was resumed with eleven tanks, in two waves supporting each other, and with supporting infantry. This assault pinned down and overwhelmed the Japanese (Pacifi Wrecks website)

Any M3 or M3A1 Stuart that I forgot...

This document is a compilation of photos published on the web. I would like to thank especially Neil Baumgardner who has been helpful to locate the Stuarts in the USA, Trevor Larkum (his website "preservedtanks.com" lists a great number of Stuarts all around the world), Rafał Białecki, who deserved a great part of the job on this document and also the people who took these photos and put them on their websites, or sent them to me, and those who helped me doing these lists (particularly people of the AFV News Discussion Board). For any question, you can email me at soldat_ryan@hotmail.com
